Four-diamond Restaurant to host Tribute to Eleven Madison Park

Brookstreet Hotel has invited some of Ottawa's best chefs, and sommeliers to collaborate on an evening of gastronomic bliss

Friday, January 27, 2012 – OTTAWA: Inspired by Executive Chef Daniel Humm's exquisite (number one selling) cookbook, Brookstreet's Executive Chef Clifford Lyness and his chef de cuisine Kyle Christofferson will be hosting an exclusive tribute dinner to showcase selections from the renowned Eleven Madison Park menu. The 16 course dinner will be served to a limited number of guests at Brookstreet's newly renovated, four-diamond Perspectives Restaurant on February 20.

Christofferson recounts: "Several weeks ago I had the fortune of being invited to an Eleven Madison Park tribute dinner hosted by Chef Murray Wilson. It was one of the most extraordinary dining experiences I have ever had." In collaboration with Chef Wilson, Brookstreet Hotel will be hosting Ottawa's second Eleven Madison Park tribute dinner. Brookstreet has invited some of Ottawa's best chefs and sommeliers to collaborate on this evening of gastronomic bliss. "Our intention is to bring New York's finest to the table and recreate—to the best of our abilities—an Eleven Madison Park experience."

To facilitate the complex culinary compilations, the restaurant will be open only to those with tickets for the event. Guests of the hotel and visitors are invited to select from the Options Jazz Lounge menu.

The menu will not be disclosed in advance of the event as each plate will be a culinary discovery as it is presented that evening. Guests will have the option to select wine pairings with the dinner for an additional $75. Dinner reservations must be confirmed in advance with the provision that no refunds are given within 48 hours of the event. Tickets are $125 per person plus taxes and gratuities.
